

THE INTERNATIONAL BACCALAUREATE

INTERNATIONAL BACCALAUREATE DIPLOMA INFORMATION UPDATE

Peter Goetze | Director of the International Baccalaureate.

In 2007 the ACER (The Australian Council for Educational Research) commissioned a report on the perceptions of the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme among Australian and New Zealand universities.

The final report can now be read by clicking here.

AN EXCITING IB DEVELOPMENT

The IB virtual community has been created to offer IB stakeholders (including all Trinity IB students and staff) the ability to connect, communicate and collaborate with one another. Tools offered within the IB virtual community include blogs, wikis, discussion forums, file uploading (documents, images, audio and video), individual profiles, the ability to form groups and other social networking functionality.

The community is available globally, allowing IB schools, classes and individuals to share, collaborate, and work with each other. Please go to: <https://ibo.epals.com/> to "Take the tour" of the IB virtual community.

Please take the time to listen to the first section (after about one minute of news) of this informative radio discussion (6-7 minutes) from 'Woman's Hour' on the BBC's Radio 4 station. This debate asks 'Is the International Baccalaureate better for students than A-levels?' (For British A-levels, we can substitute the NSW HSC).

Joining the discussion are Sandra Morton, Chair of the International Baccalaureate School & College Association, Sarah Steadman, Deputy Head of Braintree Sixth Form College and Miranda Swanson who opted for IB.
