Dear Parents and Friends of the Junior School,

At Assembly this week, the boys had the opportunity to consider the above passage and its implications for us as members of the school community. The Biblical command to love each other does not refer to a vague feeling but is a call to action, specifically to consider, respect and prioritise the needs of others. This can take many expressions; some that the boys were asked to consider are:

> Being considerate with their words and actions
> Remembering to use good manners
> Apologising for mistakes and forgiving the mistakes of others
> Standing up for those in need
> Appreciating the differences in others

The boys were issued the personal challenge to pick one of these actions and make it their personal goal. You might like to ask your son which one struck a chord with him. Trinity Junior School is an amazing place renowned for many things. How wonderful it would be to be known as a community where love and respect were shown to everyone, in every instance, even when it is hard to do. That is our collective goal.

A highlight of the week was an opportunity for boys and staff to participate in the National Simultaneous Storytime, an event whereby students all around the nation stopped at 11am on Wednesday to read a story...the same story! Across our school, in classrooms, assemblies and small groups, many students and teachers donned crowns and enjoyed communal readings of ‘The Brothers Quibble’ by Aaron Blabey. This event was a wonderful reminder of the power of stories to build community. If you aren’t familiar with the book, it is certainly worth a read. Thank you to Ms Gratton for coordinating the Junior School’s participation.

This week also featured a wonderful opportunity for teams from the Junior and Preparatory Schools to journey to Knox Grammar for the annual da Vinci Decathlon. The da Vinci Decathlon is an academic competition designed to challenge and stimulate the minds of school students, who compete in teams of eight across 10 disciplines including engineering, Mathematics, code breaking, art and poetry, Science and English. The Trinity boys performed admirably and enjoyed the opportunity to pit their minds, creativity and teamwork against the puzzles and challenges that confronted them. We will look forward to a full report from Mrs Gossling next week.

Today, Kindergarten to Year 2 attended the annual Kindy Proms in the Assembly Hall. It was a wonderful and riotous experience, as the boys listened to highly accomplished senior musicians and had many opportunities to participate. The boys in Years 3-6 enjoyed three pieces performed by our Vivaldi Strings group at Chapel. Their playing demonstrated not just individual talent and commitment to practice but also cohesion and teamwork born of many hours of productive practice together. We wish this group all the best for their performance at Sunday’s Eisteddfod.

NATIONAL SIMULTANEOUS STORYTIME – 27 MAY 2015

On Wednesday the whole Junior School participated in National Simultaneous Storytime (NSS), along with 500,000 other organisations around Australia. NSS is an annual campaign that aims to promote the value of reading and literacy amongst young Australians.

Every year a picture book, written and illustrated by an Australian author and illustrator, is read simultaneously in schools, libraries, bookshops and other locations across the country. The 2015 book was The Brothers Quibble by Aaron Blabey.

At 11am, in classrooms around the Junior School, students listened as The Brothers Quibble was read by teachers and boys in their class. The story of sibling rivalry, presented in a humorous manner, with gorgeous illustrations and rhyming text, was well received by the boys, with many keen to share stories of their own experiences with brothers and sisters. Students in Kindergarten to Year 4 made their own crowns to wear, as Spalding does during the book, and many wonderful learning opportunities took place as teachers analysed the text with their students, discussing language conventions, impact and visual literacy as they read the book.

Many thanks to Mr Dunn for his animated reading of the story to boys in years K-2, and to all classroom teachers and specialists across the Junior School for their enthusiasm and commitment to making this an engaging, enjoyable experience for the boys.

Keep an eye on the next issue of Trinity News for more pictures and stories from this event.

BOOK CLUB IS BACK!

After a break, we will be resuming Scholastic Book Club this term. For those of you who are unaware, Book Club catalogues provide quality, age-appropriate books and other materials, from which students can choose to order.

Twice a term during the school year the boys will bring home a Club flyer with a different selection of books offered. You’ll find award-winning books, as well as old and new favourites. The books span a wide range of children’s reading levels and interests and are often inexpensive (some books cost as little as $2). With any material ordered, the school receives reward points to spend on books and other resources for the library and classrooms.

This year we have registered for LOOP (Linked Online Ordering and Payment) to streamline the ordering and payment process. We kindly request that ALL orders and payments are completed online through www.scholastic.com.au/LOOP, or by using the LOOP app. Further information about this process is contained in the book club flyers.

Paper orders will not be accepted, and will be returned to students unprocessed, with a request for the order to be completed online.

Issue 4 was sent home this week, and orders need to be completed online by 8 June 2015. If you have any questions about Book Club or the ordering process, please email jslibrary@trinity.nsw.edu.au or drop into the library to chat with us.

DEBATING NEWS

A big congratulations to all Year 6 debaters for their outstanding achievement in reaching the quarter finals of the ISDA competition! As reported throughout the year, Joshua Perera, William Martin, Ahmad Hijazi, Christian Becvarovski, Gabriel Booth and Juno Yim have been competing, with great success, in this most challenging debating competition since early in Term 1.

The competition ended for them last Friday evening at Cranbrook, where they debated with intensity, enthusiasm and style only to narrowly be defeated by a very strong and very experienced St Aloysius team. The adjudicator on the evening made mention several times of the extremely high quality of the debate, and all the Trinity boys must be congratulated again not only for their efforts, but also the gracious nature with which they accepted the decision. They were excellent ambassadors for Trinity Grammar School on the evening, and all year throughout the competition.

The topic for the debate was: That we place too much emphasis on celebrities. Trinity were arguing in the affirmative, and developed a strong argument on the negative impact this emphasis can have on the lives of celebrities, and the self-esteem of the greater public, as well as the fact that all the time, energy and money spent on celebrities and reporting on their lives could be better spent elsewhere.

St Aloysius’ arguments focused on the fact that, rather than harm self-esteem, celebrities are in fact an inspiration to ‘ordinary people’ and their achievements should be recognised and celebrated – particularly as most celebrities are in the headlines for positive reasons anyway. In awarding the debate to the negative, the adjudicator noted that although both sides argued their case well and were able to refute the opposition’s points, St Aloysius were able to do so in a more effective way.

Although our boys are disappointed not to still be in the competition, they must acknowledge their tremendous achievement in going so far in the competition and I have no doubt they will feature in ISDA finals in the years to come.

Finally, a sincere thank you to all the parents who have supported the team throughout the season. The boys really are thrilled to be able to speak in front of such large audiences every week and particularly when their families are a part of it.

HOW WE EXPRESS OURSELVES USING CHINESE CALLIGRAPHY

“This is a big mountain and there are many people here” Angus told me with a big smile on his face.

Learning Chinese characters is often considered hard work for young children. However, Year Three boys have found it to be a fun thing to do when they learn Chinese characters through interesting stories. By learning the creation of Chinese characters the boys have developed an understanding of the formation and structure of Chinese characters, and how they have changed over thousands of years, therefore, the characters become meaningful to them. The boys also found a new way to express themselves when they learn to use the Chinese brush and ink to do Chinese Calligraphy. This traditional Chinese art which has thousands of years history not only helped the boys to gain a better understanding of Chinese culture, but also enable them to express themselves in an unique way. If you are interested in Chinese calligraphy as well, come and talk to our Year Three boys, they are little experts now.

Region Camp is getting closer and the Scouts are starting to plan for a fun long weekend. Even though it is only three days, the Scouts will come home from Region Camp more capable and mature than the boy you waved goodbye to on the Friday night.

Outside of the normal support structure of his family, away from the solitary distractions of modernity, a Scout must both take care of himself and cooperate with his peers. He does all this in a supportive environment that permits failure without compromising safety. He’ll be challenged to expand his abilities, to accept and offer help, and to function cooperatively in everyday tasks.

Here’s some of what your Scout does at Camp:
> Gets up in the morning on schedule.
> Shares a tent with other Scouts and keeps it neat and clean.
> Shares chores to maintain the campsite.
> Shares three meals a day served family style sitting at a table or around a campfire with seven other people.
> Serves as a waiter for his table setting, helping to cook, serve and clean up after meals.
> Sets and follows a schedule of activities according to his interests and the interests of his Patrol.
> Is responsible to find his way to and from these activities and manage his time.
> Builds character and values by attending campfires, ceremonies and reflecting on his activities.
> He is complimented by adults and peers.
> His opinions are valued and heard by other Scouts and adults.
> Has the opportunity to take on real responsibility and lead others.
> Makes a new friend.
> Strengthens existing friendships.
> Learns new skills.
> Tries something he has never tried before.
> Learns about the environment.
> Challenges his critical thinking skills.
> Puts what he learns into action.
> Works with others to establish and achieve goals.
> Uses his time to contribute to the goals of others.
> Trades T.V., video games and cell phones for actual social interaction.
> Finds healthy resolution of conflicts.
> He benefits from positive peer pressure following the good example of older Scouts and leaders.

Region Camp is challenging, adventurous, it’s full of possibility. Camp is an opportunity to let him go a little – let him stand on his own two feet, it’s an expression of confidence, of trust in his abilities and a test of your parenting.

There are three simple things as parents we can do to help our Scouts prepare for camp (and boys prepare for School camps too!).

1. Put your Scout’s name and troop on EVERYTHING! If they are attending an event with dozens or hundreds if other Scouts an misplace a piece of clothing or gear there is a much better chance it will find its way back to them if it is clearly marked with their full name and troop. There will be over 700 Scouts at this year’s Region Camp!

2. Please DON’T pack for your Scout! If you pack for your Scout, they won’t know what they have or where it is. Letting Scouts pack for themselves is a little trying for some parents. Work with them instead: start with a list, lay everything out and check it off as they pack. Will they forget somethings? Almost certainly! Building self-sufficiency is an important part of Scouting, and packing your own gear is a great way to do just that.

3. Help your Scout keep track of their gear. I can’t tell you how many times a Scout has told me that they are without some key piece of gear because they couldn’t find it at home. After every camping trip see that your Scout unpacks, checks their gear is clean and dry, and stores it in a storage tub with lid so it is there for the next trip.

Congratulations this week to Rohan Shetty for completing his Scoutcraft badge, as well as Dan Bellero for achieving proficiency badges in Collecting and Team Sports, and Harrison Brown for also achieving proficiency badge in Collecting.

All students interested in Scouts are welcome at 3rd Summer Hill (Trinity Grammar) – the Group is currently running programs for all Trinity boys from 7.5 years up to 10.5 years (Cubs) and 10 years up to 15 years (Scouts). Older students, including those interested in service projects for IB and Duke of Edinburgh, are also welcome. The Group meets in the old gymnasium at Summer Hill Campus on Tuesday evenings from 6pm to 7:30pm.
